BELL

Canaan U.S. Penitentiary/Federal Prison Camp

Waymart, Pennsylvania

Bell built this 650,000-square-foot correctional facility as part of a design/build contract that provided all architectural, engineering, construction, project management, quality control and other related services. The complex consists of several single-story buildings, a Federal Prisons Industries factory, six two-story general housing units and one two-story special housing unit within a secured compound. A security corridor that links all buildings within the secured perimeter and seven 70-feet high guard towers.

Outside the secured compound is a central shared facility consisting of a utility plant, Unicor warehouse, garage/landscape building, fueling station, and hazardous materials building. A medium-security Federal Prison Camp with living units and support facilities housing 128 inmates is located outside the secure compound, as well.

To ensure completeness and ongoing end-user benefits during occupancy, Bell implemented a custom commissioning program that has provided great success on similar projects.
